

MOYO GARDENS

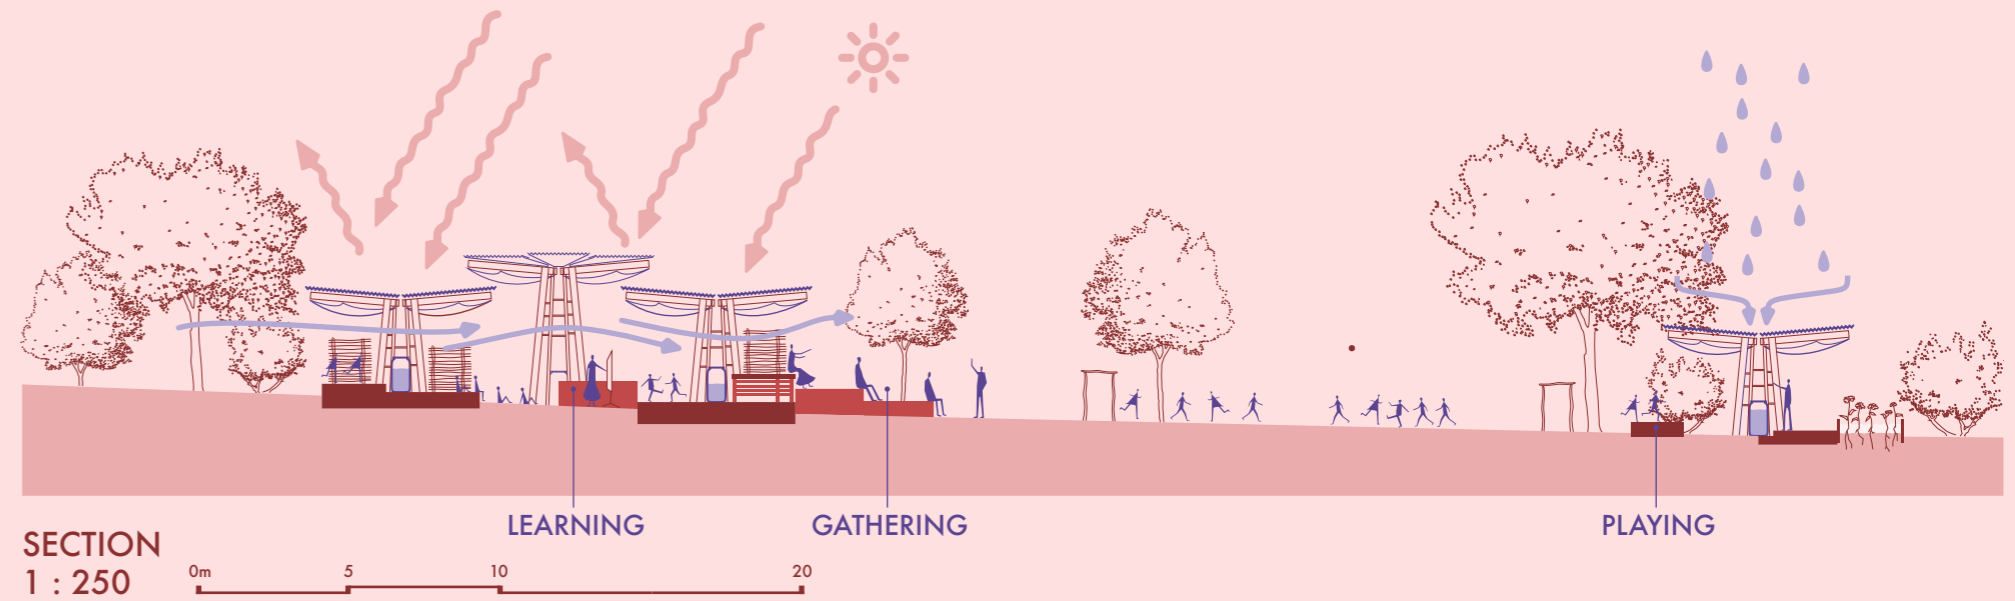

It might be hard to believe, but the architectural connection between Kenya and Norway has existed for decades. During the 60's and 70's, Norwegian architects were employed by the Kenyan government to showcase a nordic perspective on democracy and welfare through architecture. The Kenyatta International Conference Centre, depicted on the Kenyan 100 chilling bill, was drawn by the Norwegian architect Karl Henrik Nøstvik and still stands as an important symbol of this bilateral partnership.

Eco Moyo is a fantastic example and a clear sign that this Kenyan-Norwegian cooperation is far from over. By combining both techniques and perspective from both cultures this latest addition will find its place in this unique history and make sure it continues far into the future!

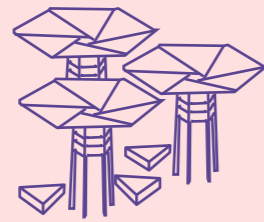

The Moyo Gardens can facilitate a wide range of activities

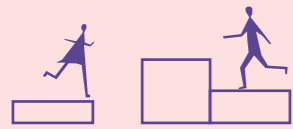

STAND ALONE

OR

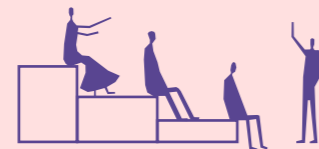

GROUPED

PLAY

AND

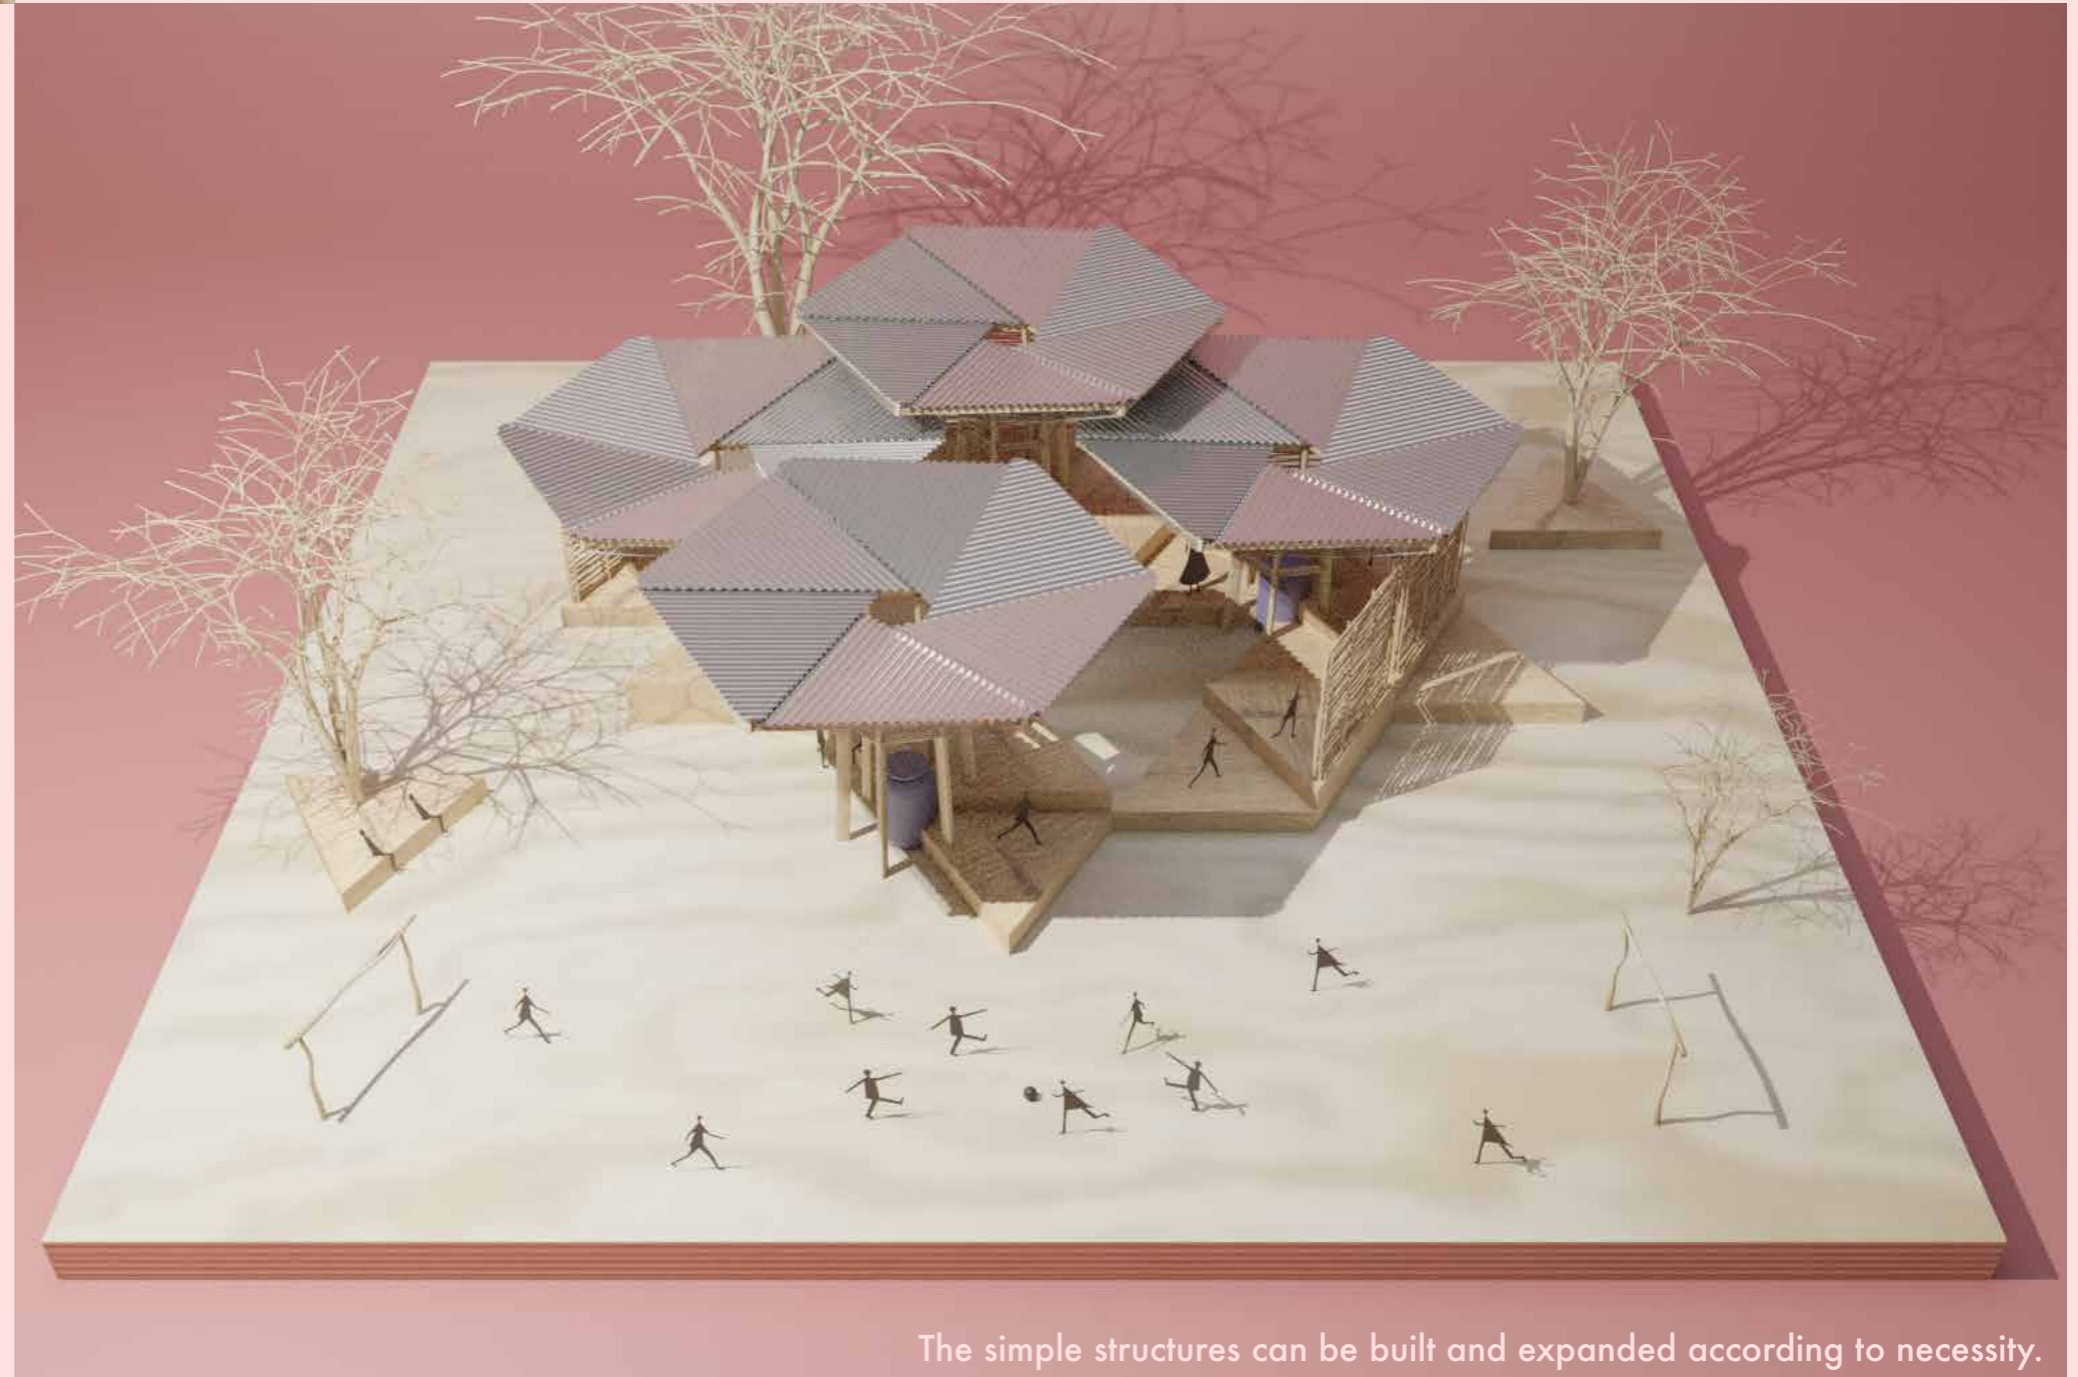

LEARN

EASY TO BUILD

PERMACULTURE

The simple structures can be built and expanded according to necessity.