

The Mystery

Contemporary sustainable architecture is often associated with structures full of technological innovations. We would like to see the sustainability to be reflected in simple forms and through accessibility and ecological footprint of architecture. Our work was guided by those principles.

We planned our project on Oya Music Festival area. We would like to convince the audience of the festival that everyone has a big impact on the environment and future of our planet. Every person has an important role in functioning of the ecosystem.

To achieve this goal, we would like to explore the natural resources available on the festival site. Especially – the amazing energy of the crowd, expressed by dancing and jumping, which naturally happens in front of the scene. Those will be the source of energy setting in motion our installation.

Specially designed platforms will be able to transfer the renewable energy from human movements to the energy used by festival equipment. We would like the participants to understand, that the energy can be produced from many resources and encourage them to innovative research for sources of energy.

Study of the human behavior reveals that people are more likely to take some action if it results in immediate and measurable effects. Considering the study, we decided that the new festival icon must be something puzzling, not easy to understand at the first glance to raise curiosity of the crowd and encourage to search for an answer. We would like to place our concept in the air above the festival site. An unidentified object floating in the air will be visible both by the participants of the festival, as well as local residents. The mysterious cube is covered with a white curtain, which only increases the curiosity, what is hidden beneath it. It is a perfect meeting point, visible from a long distance and encouraging to come closer.

People coming to the meeting point will quickly discover the relationship between the activity of people dancing on the platforms and jumping on the ground -the more energy is produced by peoples feet, the lower the mysterious cube will come down.

Final reward for the involvement of the public in the process of creating energy will be a landing of the object on the ground and unwrapping the veil to present the mysterious content.
