

RES UNIENS

In the moment of perception reality instability , when one thing represents different things for different people, it is difficult to find out common uniting features. Understanding of things formed by two values res extensa (extended thing, material thing) and res cogitans (conceivable thing , spiritual world), which lead to perception of the difference. And architecture has uniting value as well, situated between two others- res uniens. This value exists if only with the presence of res cogitans- human, res extensa-world, and could be imagined as a "house". The vizualization of this conceivable space negate any specifics and site, except propotional ratio of its size. This is the way how the "emptiness " forms- first step of space development, then continued and transformed by human presence.v
