The Wall

The simplest instance of the house is The Wall. Even such a simple object fulfills the most important functions of the place – it gives shelter and opportunity to express individuality.

The Wall is a materialized idea of the border. It can take any form and material, depending on needs and time. It represents the border we know from everyday life and relationships, in which the separation or affiliation may be expressed by distance or mutual position.

When basic conditions are met, the human intuition is creating the unique space, using The Wall as a tool, re-humanizing architecture, restoring fundamental values.

In the absence of site and program human's intuition takes the lead. It helps to find the true needs and aims the architecture should satisfy. It can be found everywhere we let the human act. The created form is total only due to the creator and the idea.
