

living memories

What is a house?

Emotions, Sensations, Knowledge, Memories, Space, Light

A house is composed by two essential elements.

Enclosure is limit and space. Coverage is shelter.
There is no site. No program.

4 Dimensions architecture.

The continuous time of life is the fourth dimensions.
The house is not a static block but it is expanded through time.
The space is walked. The path becomes home.

It doesn't exist a shape but different spatial perceptions.
The light made space through the way of getting in.

Growth.

The house is a box of memories and life experiences.
It is complex as the life choices of people.

There is not a certain path, a setted way of living.
There is no divisions, everything is fluid and continuous.
The man will fill and live the spaces.

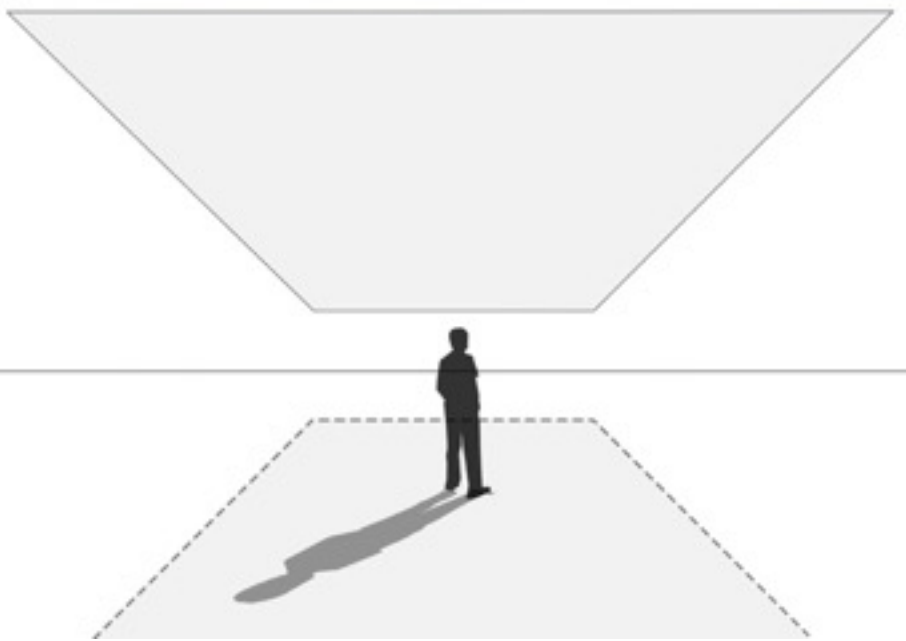

ground floor plan

coverage plan

perspective section

