Every spring, when golden rape flowers bloom, they bring a breath of fresh air to a whole buyei village. In the same way, the new building will act as a catalyst for community revitalization and education improvement. Children will use this building every day. They begin to recognize a lot of thing familiar: shape of the building, shale stone roof and their ancestor's famous stonework. But they will soon discover that this is not just a replica of their houses.

The new concept let more light enter inside. The use of color makes a great change. Everything look more friendly and approachable. The atmosphere is enhanced by this beautiful combination and it will create definitely a great environment for learning and teaching.
