

don't judge the book by its cover

Architect, the same as writer, directs plots of his story. He plans guests' actions and creates paths on which they will walk around. Everything puts into special, separate and unique world straight from his imagination.

While getting further and further into the building, we come across the space full of books and hidden holes. From the darkest to the lightest space - canteen. Due to tables which can be hide to the ground level, canteen becomes multifuntional. Bookshelves are designed to provide space for reading, various light effects and element of fun for kids.
