

THE LIGHT ROOM

Fire, Fire, is humanity's first answer for warmth and light. When light overcame the night's dark, people gathered by the fire to take shelter from darkness and loneliness. the space around fire became man's shelter from darkness and loneliness. Communications that took place around fire, are considered to be one of the most primal human interactions. Sitting by the fire creates a sense of proximity and brings out the urge to tell stories. Darkness's effect on man, can be of a calming feeling; we sleep in darkness and wonder about the world. In fact darkness helps us have a better relationship with ourselves. At the same time, it is also one of our primal fears. In a room, we usually run to corners for isolation. When there are no corners in a space, no choice is left for isolation. We combined these elements together, thinking that a dark round space with a fire in its center, is somewhere that separates us from the outside world of false communications, inviting us to connect with our ancestral experiences of darkness, light, warmth, and to form communities much similar to the very first human gatherings. Sit by the fire and tell me a story.

Light attracts.

avoid corners

Spectrum of solitude to community

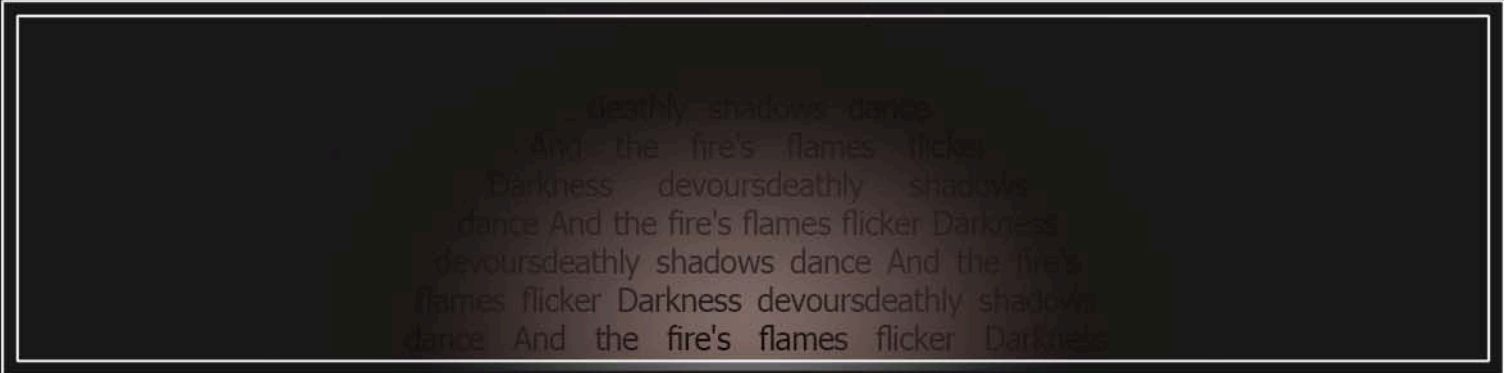

I am so glad to see you here

Sit by the fire and tell me a story.

plan

section