

one tree - one room

societal interaction is a vital need to any species for their meaningful existence.

humans, a part of naturally existing ecosystem, are trying to jump into an alienated futuristic world.

Their races have existed and survived without technology and such needs.

a single tree, being a home to many species, provides an intangible enclosure yet is open: to gather, to interact, to connect.

a tree at street's end, a tree in a home, a tree in front of a corporate plaza, trees in a park, trees in a farmland, open up as the doors for endless conversations.

So, One tree, in itself, is one room to communicate.

creating more rooms means to have more trees.

Plan of tree -1:50
Section of tree -1:50
Illustration of possible ideas

